in ỹ shire where he is suſtyce of peas do cause openly & solemnely to be ꝓclaimed yerely iiii. times in a yere in iiii. principal sessions the tenoure of this ꝓclamacion to this bil annexed: & that euery iustice of peas being ꝓsẽt at any of ỹ said sessions, if thei cause not the said ꝓclamacõ to be made in fourme abouesaid, shal forfait to our sayd souerain lord at euery time. xx. s.

HEnric⁹ dei gratia. &c. The king our souerain lorde considereth how daily within thys realme, bys coyne is crayforously counterfayted: murders, robberyes, felonyes, been grenously cõmitted & done, also vnlawful retainers, idlenes, vnlawful playes, extorcions, misdemenings of sheryffes, exchetours, and manye other enormities and vnlawful demeanynges daply groweth more & more within this hys realme, to the great displeasure of god, hurte and enpouerysshing of his subiectes, and to the subuercion of the policye and good gouernance of this his realm: for by these sayde enormityes & myschiefes his peace is broken, hys subiectes troubled, inquieted, and enpouerisshed, the husbandry of this land decayed, wherby the church of England is vpholden, the seruice of God continued, euerye man thereby hath sustenance, euery inheritour hys rẽt for his land: for repressing & auoidig of ỹ said mischiefs sufficient lawes & ordinances be made by auctoritye of many and diuers parlamentes holden within this realm to ỹ great cost of the king, his lordes & cõmons of ỹ same, and lacketh nothing but that the said lawes be not put in due execution. Whiche lawes ought to be put in due execucion by the iustice of peas in euery shyre of this realme to whom hys grace hath put and genẽ full auctoritye so to do sythe the begynnyng of hys raygne. And nowe it is commen to hys knowledge that his subiectes be lytle eased of ỹ sayde myschyefes by the sayd iustyces, but by many yᵗ them rather hurte than helped. And if hys subiectes complayne to these iustyces of peas of any wronges done to them, they haue thereby no remedy, and the said mischiefs do encrease and not subdued. The kings grace cõsydereth ỹ a gret part of the wealth and prosperity of thys lande standeth in that that hys subiectes may lyue in suretye vnder his peas in their bodies & goodes, & that ỹ husbandry of this land may encrease & be vpholde, whiche muste be had by due execucion of the sayde lawes and ordinaunces chargeth & commaundeth the Justyces of peas of thys hys shyre to endeuour them to doe & execute the tenoure of theyr commission, the sayde lawes and ordinaunces ordeined for subduing of the premisses, as they wyll stande in loue and fauour of his grace, and in auoydyng of the paynes that bee ordeyned yᵗ they do the contrary. And ouer that, he chargeth & cõmaũdeth ỹ euery man, what degree or condicion that he bee of, that lette them in worde or dede to execute theyr sayde auctoritye in any maner fourme aboue sayde, that they shewe it to his grace. And yᵗ they do it not, and it come to hys knowledge by other thã by them, they shall not stande in his fauour, but bee taken as men out of credence, and be put out of commission for euer. And ouer this he chargeth and commaundeth al maner of men, as well the poore as the ryche, which be to hym all one in due ministracion of Justyce, that is hurte or greued in any thyng, that the sayde iustice of peace may heare determine or execute in any wise, that he so greued make his complaynt to the Iustice of the peace that nerte dwelleth vnto hym or to any of his felowes, & desyre a remedy. And yᵗ he then haue

And ouer that, hys sayde hyghnesse shall not let for any fauour, affection, costcharge, nor any other cause, but that he shall se his lawes to haue playne and true execution, and hys subiectes to lyue in suertie of their lands, bodies and goodes according to hys sayde lawes, and the sayd mischiefes to be auoyded, that his subiectes maye encrease in wealth and prosperitie to the pleasure of God.
